

Save Energy, Save Money, Win a Prize

Following our first energy saving day last January you are invited to the next event that is about an offer that may be difficult to refuse. Home owners will be able to save money on gas and electricity costs from next January. Following the Government's launch of the Green Deal work can then start on installing free energy saving measures. Before any work begins you will need to find a qualified Green Deal Adviser and get your home rated and an Energy Performance Certificate issued.

To help you understand how the Green Deal works in practice, SusWoT is inviting you to a free information evening on Tuesday 13 November 7.30 at Westbury-on-Trym CofE Academy Channells Hill

We will explain how the financing works, what the Advisers will do and how to find one, the information you will need to provide and what the Performance Certificate contains.

You are also invited to enter an energy saving competition 'Energy Neighbourhoods'. This is a European wide competition involving teams of six or more householders who will endeavour to reduce their energy consumption over 4 months. The comparison will be made with the same period last year. Recording commences on the 1st of December. An 'Energy Master' who will receive a small payment at the end of the 4 months, will lead each team. Team members will need to read their gas and electric meters each week and enter the figures on to an internet spread sheet. Success means prizes! More details, including ways of making reductions, on Tuesday 13 November 7.30
